Dear Mr. Dulles:

You are cordially invited to participate in the annual United States Savings Bonds Conference to be held at the Shoreham Hotel, Washington, D.C., starting at 2 p.m. on November 28th and adjourning on the 29th.

Other important leaders in Government and all segments of the national economy will assemble to discuss our 1957 Savings Bonds Program.

Some of the conference highlights are given in the tentative program enclosed. Shortly, we will advise you of some other attractive features.

You are invited to attend the luncheon, reception and dinner on the 29th. Please return the enclosed questionnaire not later than October 15th in order that necessary plans may be completed.

We are looking forward to having you with us on this important occasion.

Sincerely,

John R. Buckley

REMARKS: In replying for Mr. Dulles, I regret because of a previous commitment that I am unable to accept your most kind invitation to join you and your associates. I wish, however, to assure you and the other members in attendance at this important conference of my sincere support of the program of cooperative action which I believe to be quite necessary to achieve the desired results.
